

What is CORD?

The Coalition on Richer Diversity (CORD) is an umbrella organization that enriches the community by bringing people together and being a resource. It reaches out to organizations and groups of immigrants and those who provide social services to collaborate, to offer networking opportunities, and to help them grow to be diversity-sensitive.

CORD's aim is to create more opportunities, assess needs, further develop services and ease the pressures on social support systems. CORD crosses the boundaries between immigrants and the long-standing population of the province as well as those who walk between the various types of social services. Through research, education, outreach, and mediation, this umbrella organization will work to identify what is being done, who is doing it, what needs to be done, and who can do it.

CORD VISION

To take part in a welcoming society where individuals, groups, and organizations collaborate by sharing ideas, resources and a common dream to eliminate barriers where differences exist. CORD believes that sharing and cooperation are the only means to a hopeful future for diversity.

CORD MISSION

To increase the capacity and well being of the province by building relationships and a sense of common purpose; as an umbrella organization CORD acts as cultural and community brokers by bringing together people and organization to collaborate, share information and build richer community networks
